Vienna, November 9.

ON the 4th Instant, the Emperour held a publick Chapel in the Cathedral Church of St. Stephen, being the 3d Day's Devotion in the Anniversary Solemnity of the Translation of the miraculous Image of our Lady from Boz to this City; and which, on this devout Occasion, was exposed to View upon the high Altar. On the 7th and 8th Instant, his Imperial Majesty held a Cabinet Council, upon the present Situation of his Affairs. The Court has ordered a Notification to be sent to the Count de Almepara, Ambassadour from the Grand Master at Malta, appointing the 10th Instant for his publick Entry to this City; accordingly his Excellency has given Directions for getting his Equipage in a Readiness for a magnificent Appearance at that Time. Letters from Stettin, a small Village situated in the Lower Austria, upon the Danube, give an Account, that a few Days ago, two Barks deeply laden had been over-set and drowned in that River, together with eight Persons who were on board. The last Advices from Constantinople, confirm the Accounts we had of the Renewal of the Peace between the Ottoman Port and the Czar of Muscovy, for 25 Years, with an Exception to the Article relating to the Russian Troops evacuating Poland; so that his Czarian Majesty may now march his Troops into the Territories of that Republick whenever he thinks proper. Advices from Warsaw say, that the Diet there is almost upon the Point of breaking up; and that the King would set out shortly for Saxony, to take the most effectual Methods for preventing the bad Consequences that may attend a Rupture of the Diet. Count Fleming is expected here, and, as the Report goes, is to sollicite some Forces. The Maltese Ambassadour having notified his Arrival here to the Ambassadors and Envoys at this Court, but not to Residents and Ministers of the lower Order, it is said, that M. de Kannegieter, the Prussian Resident, sent him Word, that notwithstanding he had not received from himself the agreeable News of his happy Arrival, which he imputed to the Forgetfulness of his Domesticks, he could not refrain from sending his Congratulation till he had the Honour of doing it personally: But 'tis reported, that the Ambassadour returned an Answer, acknowledging, that what had passed on that Occasion, was no ways through any Forgetfulness of his Domesticks, and that he had Orders to receive no Visits but from Ambassadors and Ministers of the first Rank: Upon which, 'tis said, the Prussian Resident replied, that he would inform the King his Master of this Proceeding. On the 4th Instant, the Duke of Mecklenbourg had a private Audience of the Emperour: Some Alterations has lately been made in the Ministry of this Court. A Marriage is talked of between Prince Alexander of Wirtemberg and the Dutchess Dowager of Courland: That between the Margrave of Baden and the only Daughter of the Prince of Swartzenberg, is put off for some Time. M. Dolberg, the Imperial Referendary, is dead. Sig. Albani, the Pope's Minister at this Court, takes great Pains to get the late Imperial Edict revoked, which orders the Ecclesiasticks to restore to the Laity the Estates and Lands they have acquired since a certain Time. It is reported, that the Court will oblige the Inhabitants of Hungary to declare upon Oath the Value of their Estates, in order that they may be taxed in Proportion to their Possessions, which 'tis conjectured will considerably augment his Imperial Majesty's Revenues in that Kingdom.

Ratisbon, Nov. 11. On the 9th Instant, the Deputies of the Evangelical Body notified to the Cardinal of Saxe-Zeitz, that the Kings of Great Britain and Prussia had approved of the Memorial from that Body, concerning the Affair of Religion, and that the latter, for a Mark of the great Trust he reposes in the Emperour's Promises, has caused the Monks of Hamersleben to be re-instituted in the Possession of their Convent, and to restore likewise 3 other Cloysters of Halberstad to the Roman Catholics, although his Majesty was not in the least required to do this by the Treaty of Westphalia. The Evangelical Body at the same time represented to his Eminency, that those amicable Proceedings of his Prussian Majesty, gave Hopes to the Evangelical Body, that his Imperial Majesty would likewise give immediate Orders for redressing the Grievances of the Protestants. The Cardinal promised he would forthwith dispatch an Express to Vienna, with those Representations to the Emperour. The Evangelical Body judged proper to take this Step, by reason of the Pope's Brief, newly published, and addressed to the Elector of Mayence, to animate that Elector against the Protestants, and to encourage as much as possibly he can, the Elector Palatine in his Enterprises against his reformed Subjects. And as that Brief is directly opposite to the Testimonies contained in the Emperour's late Declaration upon the Affair of Religion, and that under the pretence of a Zeal for the Propagation of the Christian Faith, the holy Father only casts in his Mind which way he may disperse fresh Seeds of Division in the Empire, the Evangelical Body therefore resolved upon those new Remonstrances to the Emperour, and at the same time to lay hold on the most effectual Means for preventing the Designs which the Court of Rome may have formed against the Protestant Religion, as well as against the common Tranquility of the Empire.

Paris, Nov. 23. Some Days ago the Cardinal de Noailles presented his Mandate to the King, and a Courier has been dispatched to Rome with several printed Copies of it. It is given out that this Prelate has likewise consented to accept of a Coadjutor, in favour of the Abbot of St. Albin. The same Day on which the Cardinal de Noailles's Mandate was published, there appeared in Print a Mandate of the Bishop of Bologne for the Publication of an Act, by which he together with the Bishops of Mirepoix, Senec, and Montpellier, renew and confirm the Appeal formerly made by them to a general Council against the Pope's Constitution, and protest against all that has or may be done for annulling the said Appeal. There are Letters from Marseilles, which say the Mortality had quite ceased at that Place, where now they were taken up with cleaning the Town; and that the Plague was likewise much abated in most of the neighbouring Places which had been infected.
